

Labjack I/O Control

The Labjack control program is used to monitor the USB connections with the input/output controllers. The picture to the right shows an error on Labjack 1 indicating that the USB cable is disconnected. If a cable is unplugged and then plugged back into the system the program should recover from the error automatically.

